(The Installing Officer having arrived in the East, announces:)

I.O: The installation of Officers in a Council marks the completion of one year's work and the beginning of the next. It teaches the peculiar art of laying aside the insignia of rank with willingness and gracefulness, and assuming the honors and responsibilities of office with humility, as the present officers relinquish their stations in token of the completion of the past year's duties, we are once more reminded of the equality that should always exist among the members.

The relation is reciprocal and the interests of both are inseparable. Without mutual cooperation, the labors of neither can succeed. A house divided against itself, cannot stand. Let brotherly love, therefore, prevail among you. Let each be emulous of the others in promoting peace and unity and in striving to see who can best rule and best obey. And may He whose watchful care is over all those who put their trust in Him, ever keep and preserve this Council to His own glory. Companion Marshal, you will make the proclamation.
